REMARKABLE POINTS ON THE MARKET

The market struggled flatly as investors were cautious before derivative contract maturing time. Main indexes were in red in most trading time with droppers in control. However, with the pull from some blue-chips at the end, VN-Index successfully reversed and closed in light green. Besides, some remarkable groups today were oil, fertilizer, Viettel, and technology. The liquidity improved, from both VN30 and midcap. Foreign investors' net selling pressure increased strongly today, and at the lead was still FPT.

TECHNICAL POINT OF VIEW

In technical term, VN-Index gained further. There was no sign of strong selling pressure returning after yesterday head-withdraw candle, and there was only weak selling pressure and it recovered positively in the afternoon, with a base-withdraw candle when dropping to 1,250-1,270. This sign showed that it might already done shaking off and will need a positive gaining candle in the next few sessions to confirm the end of the correction. For HNX-Index, it dropped again. There was sign of a struggling candle with low volume, not showing strong selling pressure. The correction might continue with support at 238-240. If it gains positively again with strong demand, the correction might end before estimated. General strategy is maintaining high weight, expecting further differentiation, having priority on healthy groups like VN30, Sea transport-Seaport, Aviation, Technology, Steel, Textile, Fertilizer, and Retail.
